Dr Struckof's problem page:

Dear Doc

My boyfriend has really been taking me for granted recently. He's never sent me flowers, but he used to buy me little gifts like Cadbury's Creme Eggs and Dime bars. When I tried to bring this up in the pub one Friday evening, admittedly in front of his friends, he accused me of living in a dream world and to get real. His very words were 'wake up and smell the Nescafe'! signed feeling totally unloved and insecure.

Dr Struckof says.

There are two possible scenarios here. One you really are a clingy little madam. The evidence is material. You need to ask yourself do these gifts really matter. does he give you lots of affection and stroke your knees in the cinema. The second is perhaps he's taking the piss. Keep trying to get around the subject with him, but for god sake don't nag him. Its a case of hang on in there and see what happens I'm afraid honey.

Dear Doc

How important are looks I keep asking myself everytime I look in the mirror. Ok I'm chubby, but so are French and Saunders, not to mention Pavarotti. So I can't fit into the skimpy 'Miss Trouble' T-shirts in Miss Selfridges. Does this make me a social outcast.

Dr Struckof says:

Sounds to me like you know you are a little porkie. But ultimately it is only you who knows what you want to be. We put great emphasis on looks in this society and if you ain't Kate Moss life ain't easy. If you can't afford plastic surgery Hun, I suggest you start selling your good bits big time, like say your personality, love for animals and children or desire to save our planet.

Dear Doc,

Our sex lives are becoming increasingly far removed. I want sex lots, the kinkier the better. He would rather stay up watching footie videos and will do anything possible to avoid coming to bed, even the washing up. I want to make out in the strangest places, on the benches in the London Underground during rush hour, on a fish stall in Brixton market. I really am any place any where. He is horrified and said once a week is well above my rations. How can I cope.
yours am I a prude lover.

Dr Struckof says

You have to understand that guys really don't have the same kinda sex drive as girlies. They like to talk about their staying power, but in reality they are bullocks rather than bulls. They'd rather sweat over a Vindaloo after 10 pints, than pump it out in the sack. You've got two options, either get to grips with the male ego or get yourself a girlfriend.

Remember this - if guys really did it that much there would be a serious world rubber shortage by now.

Dear Doc

I have serious reason to believe my boyfriend is cheating on me big bucks. I was going through his pockets, as you do and I found a receipt for dinner for two at the Atlantic Bar. Later on I mentioned the restaurant to him and he said he had never heard of it and it sounded far too hip and expensive for him. He only ever takes me to McDonalds and even then I have to buy my own shakes.
yours snoopy draws

Dr Struckof says:

This is a big dilemma Hun. If you actually admit you were going through his pockets he will never trust you again. Rememer Nine and a Half Weeks darling. I'd be more intrigued to see if that Durex dated sell by date 1990 is still in his wallet. If it isn't book into the Ritz for the night with a boyfriend on his credit card and see how he likes it. That or wait till he goes away for the weekend. Water his lounge and cover it in cress seeds. He will come back to a very interesting vegan meal.

Taurus:

This boasts a big chance in your career thanks to Uranus. Some sort of change in job is likely, but as Uranus is a slow mover, don't panic and hit the job pages just yet. Take your time. But we are not talking so laid back you are dead here. You'll still have to get up enough energy to queue for your weekly bus pass.

Gemini:

The time to get out and prove who you really are is now. Not everyone might agree, cos your actions have been a bit erratic recently. Don't delay, take control of the situation now, or face the consequences. If you want to snog the milkman do it, but remember he may have a wife. Its attention to detail that counts- so check for that wedding ring or be damned.

Cancer:

Your are in a whirlpool, which isn't good news for your sign. This month's new moon, high in the charts means the world is your oyster. Who said Prime Minister was out of the question. Aim high and you'll get there babe. Having said that there are still moments when you'll be walking on egg shells, so unless you want to hit the tabloids, avoid cabinet affairs like you would thrush

Leo:

You can no longer ignore those big fire alarms that are going on in your private life. Patience, may be a virtue, but sometimes you have to lose your temper. Otherwise live as a doormat darling, but don't blame those around you. You're always complaining about all the wrongs in your life, well you'll either have to come to grips with them or stay in doors for the next six months

Virgo:

Sometimes you are such a Mother Theresa it's sick. But this time they are taking real advantage. Whilst they are holidaying in Antigua, you'll be going to a movie on your own, well you will at this rate darling. Get real and start looking after number one.

Libra:

This is a really tense time in your emotional affairs. If you are going out with someone you can bet they don't want to do what you want to. Start getting self sufficient for a change, go meet some strangers in a bar, ring home and say 'sorry honey, I'm tied up this evening'. Not literally we hope.

Scorpio:

At last the grass is greener over the other side of the fence. Once Mars changes later this month you can put the past behind you and start building a new bungalow as they say. Be prepared to go into the red to do so. Who knows you might end up having an affair with your bank manager into the bargain.

Sagittarius:

Jupiter, the planet in charge right now is giving you some time to think. Speed isn't everything, but don't turn into a snail. Your fortunes are golden right now and you'll need some energy to start spending that windfall. So you've been eyeing up that Paul Smith suit, well go buy it - it could get you that next job interview for manager of the next up and coming Take That.

Capricorn:

All that chaos is now about to come to a close. Losing the influence of your powerful planet ain't going to be easy, but finally you can put out that 'welcome home' mat and forget about constantly packing those suitcases and running. Get comfy on the sofa and let the world come to you for a change.

Aquarius:

The big moment you've been waiting for is going to happen this month, whether is a new Lacroix frock or a win on the lottery. Your luck is in now, so gamble away sweethearts. But one little word of advice, although your luck is in, I wouldn't rush out and buy a ticket to Las Vegas just yet

Pisces:

Your life is in the balance at the moment honey and there is no way anyone else can make decisions for you. You've got to face the world, with or without your make-up. If its any consolation you've got the strength and you can do it, just don't put off your next move to another day.

Aries:

Ok so the cupboard has been empty so far, but now there is contact between you and Mars. With a little help from Jupiter things are going to start improving. It might be slow, but it will be real. Don't expect to win the races, but lets just say you won't be making the coffee at work for ever more.
